

Launch Webinar: LIVE

BROWN TO GREEN

Report 2017: The G20 transition to a low-carbon economy

Monday 3 July – 10:00 -11:00 am CEST (or convert time)

Register to hook into the LIVestream

A video recording will be available directly after the webinar here.

Dear Madam or Sir,

Global emissions will need to peak within the coming years and be reduced to zero by 2050 to keep the 2°C or even 1.5°C limit under the Paris Agreement. The G20 countries are well positioned to play the needed leadership role in the transition from burning “brown” fossil fuels to a “green” low-carbon economy. But how well are they performing?

In the week of the G20 Summit, Climate Transparency presents its new Brown to Green report providing information on how well each G20 country has advanced in four areas: Emissions, Policy performance, Finance and Decarbonization.

- | | |
|-------|---|
| 10:00 | Welcome
Peter Eigen, Co-chair Climate Transparency |
| 10:05 | Presentation Brown to Green Report 2017
Jan Burck, Germanwatch
Niklas Höhne, NewClimate Institute
Charlene Watson, Overseas Development Institute |
| 10:20 | Statements from G20 country experts of Climate Transparency
Jiang Kejun, Energy Research Institute, China
Swati Agarwal, The Energy and Resources Institute, India
Enrique Maurtua Konstantinidis, Fundación de Ambiente y Recursos Naturales, Argentina |
| 10:40 | Q&A session |

Moderation: Gerd Leopold, HUMBOLDT-VIADRINA Governance Platform

Climate Transparency is an international partnership that brings together experts from Argentina (Fundación Ambiente y Recursos Naturales), Brazil (CentroClima/COPPE UFRJ), China (Energy Research Institute), France (IDDRI), Germany (Germanwatch, HUMBOLDT-VIADRINA Governance Platform, NewClimate Institute), India (The Energy and Resources Institute), Indonesia (Institute for Essential Service Reform), Mexico (Iniciativa Climática de México), South Africa (Energy Research Center/University of Cape Town) and UK (Overseas Development Institute).

We are looking forward to your participation.

The Co-chairs

Alvaro Umaña
Former Minister of Environment and Energy of Costa Rica

Peter Eigen
Founder of Transparency International

